Crime Watch planned for South Bay

SOUTH BAY - South Bay Police Corporal Ray Burghoff is coordinating city efforts to start a Crime Watch organization.

Roy Humston, chief of the city police department, told the city commission Tuesday December 20 that he had appointed Burghoff coordinator of the effort.

Burghoff's first official act was to gain the unanimous endorsement of the city commission for the project.

"It can work in South Bay and all we need is your approval and endorsement," said Burghoff. "I think you'll really benefit by it if you let us do it."

He emphasized the organization wouldn't be funded by the city but through private sector donations. He said the organization wouldn't need too much money and he expected to approach local businesses to solicit donations for what he does need.

"I don't need a lot of money and the little bit I do need for printing material, I think I can get," said Burghoff.

South Bay's Crime Watch will be organized along the lines of the Belle Glade organization with a corporate board of officers.

Each member of the organization will be assigned an identification number they can use when reporting crimes and suspicious activity. The number will be held by the corporation and callers with numbers may keep their identities secret.

"We expect our calls to increase quite a bit," said Burghoff.

He said the organization will produce its own booklet and material designed to educate individuals what to look for during an incident so they can better aid police when giving them information.

Humston told the commission, which voted unanimously to endorse the project, that the city crime rate had dropped already, but setting up a Crime Watch organization would be a way to keep that momentum.

Rate increase put on hold in South Bay

By JEFF BROWN

Sunbelt Cable Limited, citing the expense of recent improvements and upgrading to the Glades area cable system, is seeking an increase to its basic cable service charge, but officials in at least one city apparently aren't willing to give the cable company a rate increase as large, or as soon, as requested.

According to a letter sent to city officials in Belle Glade, Pahokee and South Bay, the basic service would be increased from $9.50 a month to $11 if the proposal is implemented.

The new rates would go into effect February 1, according to the letter signed by Sunbelt Vice President Kevin McLaughlin.

That may not be the case in South Bay, however. City commissioners decided Tuesday, December 20 to table the request for 90 days. After that time, the commissioners may re-examine the request.

"Our reception has been pretty good here the last two weeks or so," said Mayor Donald Tanner. "I would like to see it stay in this good a shape for 60 or 90 days before we grant any sort of increase."

According to James Gann, South Bay's city attorney, the agreement between the cable company and the city permits the company to raise its rates no more than five percent a year and 15 percent in any three year period. City commission approval must be received for those increases, he said.

"Technically, five percent a year is all you could authorize," said Gann.

The requested $1.50 represents an increase of 15.7 percent in one year.

Tanner asked for and received a motion to table the request for 90 days. That motion passed unanimously.

"This way I'm sure we'll hear from them (Sunbelt) again before the 90 days is up," said Tanner.

According to City Manager Max Harrelle, most complaints on the cable service concern the inability to receive service from the cable company when subscribers telephone complaints.

"It doesn't do any good to call," said one South Bay resident in attendance at the meeting. "They don't send anyone out anyway."

"I do not believe the service is up to 75 percent yet," said Commissioner Bennick Morris. "We should really be sure that the service is up to par before we grant any sort of increase."

No action has been taken yet on similar requests in Pahokee and Belle Glade.

Sunbelt bought the cable system from Jones Interchange last spring and has since expanded the service from the original 12 basic channels and one premium channel to 20 basic channels and two premium channels.

Construction of houses is underway

SOUTH BAY - Actual construction has started on a million dollar housing project has started in South Bay.

Twenty houses will be built on Southwest Ninth Avenue and offered for sale to low- and moderate-income families, according to City Manager Larnax Harrelle.

Belle Glade contractor Larna Tripp recently started construction on the 10 single-family units on the east side of the street. The other 10 will be built later in the year by another contractor.

Both contractors will receive about $450,000 for their part of the work, said Harrelle.

The project is two years in the making. Community Development put in streets, curbs, sidewalks and sewers two years ago at the cost of about $150,000, according to Harrelle.

Farmer's Home Administration is funding the construction of the houses.

The city and FHA received between 400 and 450 applications for the 20 homes, said Harrelle. Seven of the applicants have been accepted.

Planes were driven at the site for the first time before this week.

Planes for four of 20 planned homes in South Bay's Southwest Ninth Avenue were driven earlier this week.

Club's month active

PAHOKEE -- Xi Alpha Mu is in the middle of an active holiday season.

It started December 1 at the club's monthly meeting when members exchanged "white elephants" and participated in a Christmas quiz.

Saturday, December 17, club members joined members of Beta Sigma Phi in a dinner party.

A short business meeting preceded the December festivities which were opened with a reading by Elsie Sims of the Christmas story from the Saint Luke gospel and two holiday poems.

Members were asked to give the title of Christmas songs and to answer questions on Christmas customs, lore and literature during the Christmas quiz.

Kathryn Cunningham, the high scorer during the quiz, and Hilda Wilkinson, runner-up, received prizes.

After exchanging "white elephants," the members were served holiday cake.

Florentine Martin was a guest of the chapter at the meeting. The December 17 meeting started with a social hour at the home of Lynda and Donald Moss.

The group then departed and reassembled at the Ann and Joey Alderman home where the main course and dessert were served.

Members of Xi Alpha Mu who attended were Irene and Bruce Bowe; Tina Elliott and her guest; Lorne Vann King, who served as Beta Sigma Phi director in the club's early days; Florence and Manning Keen; Gethie and Lowe Frigid; Catherine and Norman Kennedy and Ada and Coleman Conley.

Tammy Thomas

Plans announced

BELLE GLADE -- Ann Michelle Olden of Belle Glade and Joseph Lawrence Dixon of Pahokee announce their engagement.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Bonnie J. Funderburk and the late A.E. Funderburk. She graduated from Glades Day School and is employed by the Bank of Pahokee.

The groom-elect is the son of Gayle Prignano of Pahokee and James Lawrence Dixon of Belle Glade. He graduated from Pahokee High School and works for the Sugarcane Growers Cooperative of Florida.

The couple is planning a June wedding.

Ann Olden-Joseph Dixon

Club celebrates

BELLE GLADE -- Members of the El Dorado Civic Club of Belle Glade and their guests will celebrate their annual Christmas Together dinner December 22.

The party will be at the Belle Glade Municipal Civic Center at 7:30 p.m. Members will exchange gifts.

Thomas, Porter will marry

Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas of Pahokee announce the engagement of their daughter, Tammy, to Herbert Porter Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Porter Sr. of Belle Glade.

Thomas is a graduate of Pahokee High School and attended Palm Beach Junior College. She is a member of American Outstanding Names and Faces Association. She is presently employed by the Belle Glade Police Department.

Porter is a graduate of Glades Central High School and he also attended West Technical Education Center. He is employed by Wilson Landscaping Company.

The couple are planning the wedding for New Year's Day, January 1, at St. James A.M.E. Church at 4:30 p.m.

All friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend.

Carolers perform

BELLE GLADE -- A group of 23 fourth grade students from Gove Elementary hosted a Christmas Caroling party at the Glades Area Association for Retarded Citizens, Thursday, December 15.

Students were selected for the group by audition. The director was Carol Schmidt, a music teacher at Gove Elementary.

The students provided refreshments following the performance.

Students participating were William Bradley, David Coffee, Sandra Brockman,

Right approach to rate increase

We think the South Bay city commission is taking the correct approach to the requested rate increase by Sunbelt Cable, Limited.

First of all, the company is apparently asking for a larger increase than the city can legally grant. The commission wisely decided to limit the size of the increase to the five percent the city attorney said can legally be approved in any one year.

We also think the request has come too soon. We aren't saying the company doesn't deserve a rate increase. In the last two years, its the only utility or service that we can think of that hasn't received an increase.

But we aren't saying the company deserves the rate increase either. The company has recently completed some much publicized improvements and repairs to the cable network in the Glades.

That work was completed and on line less than a week before local cities received a request for the rate increase.

Why not give subscribers a chance to see if the much ballyhooed improvements and repairs are effective?

South Bay city commissioners decided to wait 90 days, then consider a rate increase.

We don't know the status of the new cable company financially, but it seems to us that if the new owners had enough cash to underwrite all the improvements and repairs, they can hold on for 90 days. We urge other cities to consider a similar course if their agreements with the company allow it.

Perhaps the cable company can use that time to improve the complaint network in which subscriber complaints are apparently currently lost.

Most local government officials mention poor communication between the company and subscribers with complaints as the biggest problem with the company.

That communication network is the biggest single link between the company and its subscribers, especially vocal dissatisfied subscribers who can become very vocal voters.

Elected officials must consider their constituents' needs when they consider any rate increase.

Construction a nice gift for Christmas

Construction has started in South Bay on four of 20 planned homes for low- and moderate-income families.

The project, a joint effort of several parties, including the city, Community Development, Farmers Home Administration and private contractors, has been in the works for two years and will cost a total of over one million dollars by the time its complete.

Recently, city commissioners have been questioning the delay in the actual construction of the project.

We don't know why the project has been delayed two years, but we're glad to see construction begin on at least part of the project.

We can't think of a better Christmas gift than for a family to see construction of its home finally begin.

We hope it isn't next Christmas before work begins on the other 16 units.

Looks like time for another civics lesson

Time for another lesson in government.

The South Bay city commission recently approved a variance that will permit a city property owner to build a triplex on a lot in the middle of a section zoned for single-family dwellings only.

We have no problem with that since the property is surrounded on one side by a duplex and on another by a quadplex, both of which were apparently grandfathered in.

It also seems the plans for the triplex meet newly adopted city standards.

No problem there. The problem is with the way it was done.

The individual seeking the variance originally wanted a duplex and was granted a variance for the structure. He changed his mind and decided that, since it would meet the city code under the newly adopted revisions, he wanted a triplex.

So he approached the city manager who told him, correctly, that he couldn't issue the permit without commission approval because the variance was for a duplex, not a triplex.

So the individual went before the commission which decided the triplex was fine.

It just so happened that the request for the triplex variance was on the agenda before the final reading and ultimate approval of the revision that made the plans for the triplex legal. So the commissioners correctly followed their attorney's advice and approved the revision before approving the variance.

All the appropriate procedures were followed, right?

Wrong! We're surprised the city attorney didn't tell the commissioners this, but that variance can't be approved without first conducting a public hearing on the matter. That hearing must be advertised several days in advance.

What really strikes us as odd here is that the commissioners and the city attorney decided that the appropriate procedure had to be followed in one instance, and not in the other.

The variance couldn't be granted before the final reading of the code revision was approved.

The variance could be granted without following the appropriate procedures (aka; an advertised public hearing) once that revision was adopted, though.

Sounds sort of like an umpire denying a baseball player his free base after he was hit by a pitched ball because the pitch that hit him was illegal. In South Bay, the pitcher would have to wind up and nail the batter with a legal pitch for it to count.

If government officials are going to go to the trouble of following rules, and we certainly hope that's the case, they ought to follow all the rules, no matter how cumbersome.

Joy of letters to Santa

Ailsa Dewing

"And What Not"

"It's a long, dull job but somebody has to do it," I said to myself as I stared at the foot-high stack of papers piled on top of the "typesetting machine."

A glance at the first document on the pile showed me what I was in for — it was handwritten. In pencil. And about half the words were misspelled. A typesetter's nightmare, to be sure.

There was nothing for it, however, but to sit down and begin deciphering the messages. A moment later I was having the time of my life. I was stopping anyone who passed by, urging them to "read this." And I wouldn't have traded places with Santa Claus himself — whose mail it was, incidentally, that I was reading. The letters were written by first, second, and third graders from Moore Haven to Pahokee and are included in today's edition. They are undated except in rare cases where it was impossible to translate what the young writer had in mind.

For the two days it took me to set those letters in type I was in a perpetual state of astonishment which was interrupted only by fleeting moments of nostalgia.

Dealing with the nostalgia: Do you remember learning how to write? A time when you thought you'd never learn to recognize the cursive or written "d" from a "b"? For the first time in more than half a century I was back in a second grade classroom listening to a teacher describe the cursive "l" as "a soldier who stands up tall." And the letter "t" she said, "was the soldier looking at his reflection in the water." I can remember that "b" was the soldier with a basket and "d" was a soldier with a knapsack. But what magic mind markers she used for the other 22 letters have faded from my memory. It's at least ten years since I had to rely on them.

The astonishment was provided by the creative spelling I encountered. How do you spell "cabbage"? Let me count the ways. Better yet, you count them but I hope you'll join me in awarding first prize for "kabi." For alternative spellings, Rudolph also got a fair share, and my favorite is "Rooftop the Reinder." And it's surely a plus for TV that children who had problems spelling "hav" proceeded effortlessly through "operation," and "strawberry shortcake." Of course, the latter got mangled a bit for one writer and emerged as "shortberry strawcake."

Many of the misspelled words, such as kabi, katrpil, kolechun and mashesgun (?) deserve an A-plus for effort. As a teacher, I would have a hard time marking down a spelling paper which reflected such noble effort and attentiveness to phonics.

I would never have believed so much of a child's personality could be revealed in a letter of 25 words or less and written to Santa Claus, of all people. But don't we have a budding politician in a boy who closes his letter with, "Tell your wife I said Hay." Or a future policeman who cautions Santa to "Drive carefully." And couldn't you cuddle the little girl who wrote, "I hope that I be good. Yes I do." To her I would say, "Honey, most of us go all through life with that fervent hope in our hearts."

A lot of the youngsters have promised to leave out cookies for Santa, but what should he expect at the house of the boy who wrote, "I will leave cookies ho, ho, ho." Crumbs, possibly?

Enough of this telling you about the letters. Read them, do, for yourselves. If you haven't the time before Christmas, save the pages until you have a quiet moment. Some of the letters will brighten your day. Others will touch your heart and bring tears to your eyes.

And a special word to a little boy in Moore Haven: You can count on it, son. Santa has had the measles and he won't be kept out by the sign on your door.

Jim Jones

Just in time for Christmas (barely) Ailsa Dewing's "The Rapid Transit Fast Food No-Deposit No-Return Reader" has been released by Rainbow Books.

This 110 page book is a collection of the best of Ailsa's "And Whatnot," written over the past five years.

The book includes an endorsement by Dean Jones, columnist and staff writer for the Post and Evening Times.

In the best Dewing fashion "reverent and witty" Ailsa explores a wide variety of topics, ranging from "The date of my youth" to "Home is where the heart burns."

The book is available at the Clewiston News, Moore Haven Rainbow Gardens, the Belle Glade Herald-Observer, and Phillips Music in Belle Glade.

The price is $6. If you like, you can order it from Rainbooks, P. O. Box 1059, Moore Haven, Fla. 33471-1059. Please include $6 plus $1.25 postage for each book ordered.

The book is also available for special quantity discounts for bulk purchases for sales promotions, premiums, or fund raising. For details write or call the publisher at (813) 946-0293.

We are proud and pleased to see Ailsa's book come to pass. She will be glad to autograph all copies purchased.

Welcome to our winter residents. We are pleased to see you join us (or rejoin as is often the case).

Your selection of our area to winter shows your impeccable good taste and judgement. It is a cheering sight to see our churches fill, social life become a little busier, and business pickup with your arrival. Best of all, however, is that fact that you are here so that we may renew old friendships.

Best wishes to all for a Merry Christmas. If it doesn't seem like the Christmas season to you, try recalling the original reason we celebrate the season. That does the trick every time.

Santa and jingle bells are nice, but the long-ago events in Bethlehem are the main thing. Awe inspiring, isn't it?

Residents should be wary of calls from police

Local law enforcement authorities are asking residents to be wary of telephone calls from individuals claiming to be police officers.

According to Detective Steve Haller of the Belle Glade police or county sheriff's department, two individuals have received calls from someone claiming to be a member of the Belle Glade police or county sheriff's department. The caller apparently told the individual that he or she had information concerning a past or future crime and asked the individuals to meet them at another location, such as a motel, to discuss the matter further.

Haller said both the individuals who received the calls had reported the incidents and the meetings never took place.

One of the calls was received in the county and the other in Belle Glade, said Haller, who added he is working the case with Belle Glade Police Detective John R. Carney.

"We just wanna reinforce in people's minds that we don't conduct business in that manner," said Haller. "I can't think of any police department anywhere that would conduct business in that way."

He said if police request an individual to come to the police offices, not another location such as a "sleazy motel." Police suspect the individual making the request for the meetings for another crime.

Hospital following a lengthy illness. He was born in Cazenovia, New York and resided in Pahokee since 1962. Prior to his retirement in 1980, he was associated with Thriftway Supermarket in Pahokee as a meat cutter for 27 years.

He was a member of the Elks Lodge Number 1638, Pahokee and the First Baptist Church of Pahokee. Survivors include his wife, Violet; one son, Kenneth M. Hitchcock, Jr. of Alto Loma, Texas; one step-son, James "Rusty" Hall of Plano, Texas; one step-daughter, Mary Dickson of Pahokee; his mother, Agnes L. Matich of Hamilton, New York; nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Funeral services were December 21 in the Wetherington Funeral Chapel with Rev. Joe Hudson, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Pahokee, officiating.

Interment was in Port Mayaca Cemetery with members of the Elks Lodge Number 1638 in charge of the graveside services.

Active pallbearers were David Hitchcock, Joe Sims, Jack Wilson, Hilton Jones and William R. Hatton.

Honorary pallbearers were Leon Spooner, Ricky Heffernan, W. "Freddie" Johnson, Mead Maxwell, Jack Herick, George Tucker, Sam McKinstry, Ray Hatton, B. J. Rawls, Charles Jerringan, Ralph Jones and R.O. Crosby.

Wetherington Funeral Home in Belle Glade was in charge of arrangements.

Edward "Ned" Ayres, Edward M. "Ned" Ayres Sr., 66, of 321 N.W. Avenue D in Belle Glade, died December 16 at his residence. He was a native of Osceola, Arkansas.

Ayres and his wife moved to Belle Glade in November 1949 from West Palm Beach. He served his country in World War II in the United States Air Force as a fighter pilot in battles and campaigns in Northern and Southern Italy and Southern France.

He was awarded the following decorations and citations while serving his country in active duty: the American Service Ribbon, Air Medal with Four Oak Leaf Clusters, War Department Distinguished Flying Cross, and four Battle Stars serving in African, European and Middle Eastern Battle Campaigns.

He was a member of the St. John's Episcopal Church in Belle Glade, a member of the Belle Glade Elks Club, BPOE No. 1716, a U.S. Air Force Lifetime Reserve Officer (Lieutenant Colonel), Ayres owned and operated his own business as a real estate broker.

Survivors include his wife Patricia D. Ayres of Belle Glade, two sons, Edward M. Ayres Jr., of Belle Glade and Howard M. Ayres of Belle Glade, two daughters, Patricia Jean Alcebo of Royal Palm Beach and Janet Catherine Spruell of Atlanta, Ga.; two sisters, Lillian B. Florida and Edna Haddock, both of Osceola, Ark., and five grandchildren.

Funeral services were at the St. John's Episcopal Church in Belle Glade, December 19th at 10 a.m. with Fr. Charles B. Farrar officiating. Pallbearers included members of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Dept., coworkers of "Ned" Ayres Jr.

Interment followed at the Foreverglast Mausoleum Gardens in Belle Glade.

Mixon Funeral Home in Belle Glade was in charge of arrangements.

Glades Day FHA Chapter meets

BELLE GLADE - The Glades Day School Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America met December 12 at the home of Joy Larsen, club sponsor.

Members had a cookie exchange and the winners of an F.H.A. jingle contest were announced. Mary Frances Towell won first place and Sharon Sims was runner-up.

PTO holiday program presented

BELLE GLADE - The Lake Shore Elementary Parent-Teacher Organization presented a holiday season program in the school's cafeteria, December 14.

Plans were discussed for attending the proficiency events at Coconut Creek High School in February. Each F.H.A. member will have the opportunity to demonstrate her proficiency in various home economics skills. The members attending the party meeting were Susie Alford, Mary Frances Towell, Terri Towell, Shar Sims, Kelli Wilson, Linda Lakatos, Lisa Kimmel and Kelli Woodman.

Dear Santa Claus, I'm glad that I got to write you a letter to you, because for christmas I want you to bring me, baby

Dear Santa Claus, I have been wandering how long it would be until you come. I'm sure it won't be long. Any way I would like a big four baders cun-broled truck. I will be A bby6 toy truck any very happy if I get it. A cow by set and a B U and I'll be seeing you on gun.

Alive. But santa next christmas I want you to bring me a bike.

your frenid, Ryan Cotton. Dear Santa Claus, I want a new racing bike and A big foot toy truck and troled truck. I will be A bby6 toy truck any very happy if I get it. A cow by set and a B U and I'll be seeing you on gun.

Man charged with choking nine-year-old niece Monday morning

SOUTH BAY — A South Bay man is charged with aggravated battery after he allegedly admitted to attempting to choke his niece with a cord. According to the report filed by Corporal Raymond M. Burghoff and Chief Roy L.

Humston of the South Bay Police Department, Calvin E. Johnson, 24, was placed in Palm Beach County Jail under $5,000 bond after he confessed to the incident Monday, December 19.

Burghoff and Humston were called to the scene of the incident at 135 Southwest Sixth Avenue in South Bay at about 8:15 a.m. by the nine-year-old child's mother, Barbara Johnson, 26. She told police that her brother had attempted to choke her daughter by wrapping a cord around her neck.

The child, Vondra Salter, was uninjured but was upset by the incident.

Calvin E. Johnson lived at his sister's and niece's dwelling.

The suspect was still at the scene when police arrived and he allegedly admitted to the attack.

"Yeah, I did it," he reportedly told the police. "If I don't get out of here, I'm going to kill all of them."

He then apparently walked out of the house and entered the back of the police car without being asked.

"Take me away," he allegedly told police after he was in the vehicle. I want to go with you, now."

Johnson was charged with aggravated battery.

City hall will close

PAHOKEE — Pahokee city hall will be closed Friday, December 23 and Monday, December 26, in observance of Christmas and Christmas Eve.

Betty McCoy, city clerk, explained to the city council earlier this month that city employees get Christmas Eve and Christmas off and, since both fall on weekends, they will take the holidays Friday and Monday.

Communion slated

PAHOKEE — There will be a candlelight communion service at the First United Methodist Church in Pahokee Saturday evening December 24.

The Christmas Eve Family Candlelight Communion Service will start at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary.

The church is located at 491 East Main Street in Pahokee.

Students give food

The student council at Lake Shore Middle School and Cynthia Vickers Foster's class collected canned goods to be distributed for the holiday season. Joyce Vincent was the recipient of the canned goods.

Local death

Carl B. Price, Carl Barstall Price, 64, of 925 Whitaker Rd. in Belle Glade died December 19 at the Miami Heart Institute in Miami Beach. He was a native of Loudon County, Tennessee, and came to Belle Glade 19 years ago from Tennessee.

Price was of the Baptist faith and at the time of his death he was a supervisor at the A. Duda & Sons, Inc. Farms.

His survivors include his wife, Faye M. Price of Belle Glade; one son, Jeffery Carl Price of Belle Glade; one daughter, Jannifer Carol Watson of Pahokee; and one granddaughter, Debra Louise Watson.

Funeral services were at the Mixson Funeral Chapel December 22 at 11 a.m. with Reverend F.T. Mason, pastor of the Church of God in Belle Glade, officiating.

Palbearers included Chuck Harrelson, Steve Miller, Neal Hart, Johnny Hood, Bill Shelton, and Norman Yarn. Honorary palbearers were Dick Suttle and Sam Jones. Interment services followed at the Everglades Mausoleum Gardens in Belle Glade.

Mixson Funeral Home in Belle Glade was in charge of arrangements.

Continued from page 18 show the eternal, living Christ. One tradition gives a specific meaning for each candle: Beck and Lindberg in "A Book of Advent," tell us the following: "The first candle has been called the Prophesy Candle, opening up the period of writing. The second is the Bethlehem Candle, symbolic of the preparations being made to receive and to cradle the Christ child. The third is the Shepherd's Candle.

This typifies the act of sharing Christ. And the fourth is the Angel's Candle of love and final coming. These candles are usually are purples. A fifth candle placed in the center of these candles is white. This is the Christ candle, the last candle to be lighted on Christmas Eve." Having the wreath and the candles in the home reminds the family of the light of the world that has come as a fulfillment of God's promise. Many Christian churches follow the pattern of using scripture passages of the Old Testament, the Epistles, and the Gospels. The preaching in this season is on these great passages telling of the Messianic prophecies and the fulfillment in Jesus Christ. These proclamations of God's word are preparing the hearts of the hearers for the coming of Christ. Today the Advent period has a two-fold character; that of holy joy and deep repentance. In the midst of all boisterous bustle of physical preparation for the observance of Shepherds left their flocks and wise men traveled miles and miles to see the newborn Christ child and celebrate His birth. Today we commemorate this holy time with celebrations of our own and traditions that have been handed down from generation to generation. The angels herpiding His birth are today calling to remind us of the true spirit of this Christmas season—love. The world over the miracle of His birth is recalled in many ways. We hope that you and your family may take this opportunity of the season to recall His birth in your own special way of celebration and tradition.

Christmas in home and community, Christians are encouraged to reflect on the reason for Christmas.

The basis is simply this: God was so concerned over the world, you and me in particular, that He sent His own Son into the chaotic morass of our helpless existence. Christ has given us a motive which enables us to see and act beyond our own selfishness.

Let us sing with the angels, Christ is Born, again today in our hearts. Make this a time when our lives are filled with gladness

Dear Santa

If you would I want a computer and other things I'm glad some people believe in you I do and I'm glad God and Jesus made you and I

Blessings of the Season

On a starry night almost two thousand years ago, the first Christmas started with a child. Since that time, Christmas has had a special meaning for young and old alike, all over the world. For Christmas is a time of great love, great happiness and great hope.

As we celebrate again that magical moment, let us pray that the true spirit of Christmas be reflected in the hearts of all men. And may the special promise of the first Christmas child bring us all to a new and glorious morn.
